There is a setting for an AGM battery (this one they say its a EV traction dry cell battery but irregardless it's still an AGM, right?). Looking at the graphs on the battery spec it says I should be able to charge maximum 14.4 to 14.7. I regard this range as very wide and would like you help to choose the correct values.

Battery costs continue to be a barrier to the widespread adoption of electric vehicles. Dry battery manufacturing techniques can help solve this issue by enabling more sustainable, lower-cost cell manufacture. Clemens Lischka highlights the use of continuous twin-screw extruders for dry processing and the collaborative investigations that are helping KIT ...

The porous medium in a GEL Dry Cell battery is the cracks in the GEL electrolyte. This suppresses the production of hydrogen at the negative plate. Water (H₂O) is produced instead, retaining the moisture within the battery. It never needs watering and should never be opened as this would "poison" the battery with additional oxygen from the air.
