Brazil leads South America in the clean energy revolution with a power market dominated by hydro generation. However, reliance on hydro comes with challenges: It is notably sensitive to precipitation patterns and climate events which could lead to an increased dependence on thermal fossil-fuelled plants.

Brazil: Energy intensity: how much energy does it use per unit of GDP? Click to open interactive version. Energy is a large contributor to CO₂ - the burning of fossil fuels accounts for around three-quarters of global greenhouse gas emissions. So, reducing energy consumption can inevitably help to reduce emissions.

It takes the actual energy output and divides it by the max potential energy. This comparison is shown as a percentage. The PLF formula is: $PLF = (\text{Actual Energy Output} / \text{Potential Maximum Energy Output}) \times 100\%$.

The energy sent out by the plant when operating at 450 MW for 24 hours will be: $450 \text{ MW} \times 24 \text{ hrs} = 10,800 \text{ MWh}$. Plant Load Factor (PLF): $10,800 \text{ MWh} \div 12,000 \text{ MWh} = 0.9$ (90%) A low PLF is bad for the power plant as it indicates that the plant is not being used to its optimal capacity. This will increase the per-unit cost of the power thus produced ...
